E-News Update

This E-News update includes information on federal and state resources available to help Texas businesses and employees recover from Hurricane Ike. We welcome your comments, questions, good stories and suggested topics. See below for details.

CONSTRUCTION UNDER WAY ON GALVESTON TEMPORARY MOBILE HOME COMMUNITY SITES

Construction has begun on Galveston County's first temporary mobile home community site for Texans displaced from their homes by Hurricane Ike.

The site is in High Island on the upper Bolivar Peninsula. The 9.5-acre site will hold 50 manufactured homes from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). Also starting construction is a 54-unit community site in the city of Galveston at Schreiber Field. Contractors estimate construction should be completed within three weeks, as long as the weather cooperates.

Meanwhile, more than 75 Texas families have moved out of manufactured homes provided by FEMA. Other families are moving into the newly opened Acadian Annex community park in the southern Orange County town of Bridge City. The 39-unit site is the first community site to open under an initiative by FEMA and its partners to build such parks in Texas.

MOST FEMA MANUFACTURED HOMES IN ORANGE COUNTY

More than 2,000 families have moved into manufactured housing in Orange County as local, state and federal partners work to ease the housing shortage in an area hit hard by Hurricane Ike.

As of Wednesday, 2,015 FEMA-provided temporary housing units have been occupied in Orange, Bridge City and other towns in Orange County. FEMA has now placed 98 percent of the county's eligible applicants in manufactured housing. More than half of the total anticipated need of 3,654 manufactured housing units is in Orange County.

FEMA continues to look for apartment rentals for evacuees in the hard-hit counties of Orange, Jefferson, Chambers, Galveston and Harris. As rental units are repaired, FEMA will try to move families into these locally owned and operated facilities. Landlords with available rental units are encouraged to call FEMA at 512.820.7838.
